OVERVIEW

Rene Ruiz is a Shareholder in the Firm's Labor & Employment Department and a member of the Firm's Board of Directors. Rene has been honing his craft as a labor & employment attorney in Miami since his admission to the Florida Bar in 2001, at the age of 23. Rene began his career at a prominent national law firm, and was mentored by John-Edward Alley, a titan in the labor law field. In 2007, Rene was first included in "The Best Lawyers in America" as an associate lawyer (one of the very few associate attorneys to do so in the history of the prestigious publication). The following year, he was voted into partnership at the age of 30, becoming the youngest equity partner in the history of that law firm.

Rene partners with private and public sector employers to formulate winning strategies for achieving effective labor relations and other business goals. A skilled negotiator, Rene has helped save his clients millions of dollars through collective bargaining, administering union grievances, handling arbitrations, defending unfair labor disputes before the National Labor Relations Board and the Public Employees Relations Committee, and managing union certifications and elections. In addition, Rene trains employers on union avoidance and strike preparation, and has successfully navigated through actual and threatened strikes and other work stoppages. Rene also litigates wage and hour disputes, discrimination, retaliation, whistleblower and harassment cases, and matters arising under Title III of the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Rene has amassed an impressive list of international and national clients and has achieved many notable victories on their behalf. For example, Rene has successfully negotiated numerous collective bargaining agreements for his unionized clients that were ratified by the respective labor unions without a work stoppage. These labor agreements have helped save his clients costs by expanding their management rights, restructuring pensions and other future liabilities, and attaining numerous union concessions. In addition, Rene has successfully defended the broad application of the "agricultural exemption" under the Fair Labor Standards Act by winning summary judgment collective actions challenging the application of the overtime exemption for various agricultural employees. Rene has also successfully defended numerous restaurant and retail clients throughout Florida against cases alleging barriers to disabled access.

Rene serves as chief labor counsel for Florida Crystals, American Sugar Refining, and their related affiliates. Rene also serves as General Counsel for Armando Christian Perez, the artist known internationally as “Pitbull,” and helps direct his business affairs.

Outside of his legal accolades, Rene was a part of former Florida Governor JEB Bush’s bid to purchase the Miami Marlins in 2017.

Rene also co-founded the Sports Leadership Arts and Management (SLAM!) network of public charter schools with Armando Christian Perez (“Pitbull”). SLAM! serves an overwhelmingly minority and underserved student population and unlocks seemingly unattainable opportunities within the sports industry for its students by preparing them for a myriad of sports-related careers including broadcasting, sports medicine, media production, physical therapy, marketing, nutrition, entertainment, entrepreneurship and management. This has allowed Rene to develop extensive experience with the process of opening charter schools in many different states. Rene has used this expertise to successfully assist clients in navigating the regulatory procedures of differing school districts and establish new charter schools and their supporting foundations.

Rene serves as the President and Chairman of the national SLAM! network of schools, which currently has campuses in Miami, Las Vegas, Palm Beach, Orlando, Tampa, Apollo Beach, Atlanta, Miami Beach, Boca Raton, San Antonio, and Phoenix serving approximately 10,000 students nation-wide. Rene also serves as the President and Chief Executive of the SLAM! Foundation, which helps direct the network’s growing list of corporate partnerships and supports the network’s current campuses, as well as the upcoming replications of its successful model throughout the country.

With Pitbull’s dedicated support, SLAM! has garnered significant national attention through features on The Today Show, Good Morning America, The Tonight Show, the Katie Couric Show, National Public Radio, The Washington Post, ABC Nightline, and CNN, among countless others. SLAM!’s journey from “305 to Worldwide” took an important step in 2016, when it was awarded a channel on Sirius XM Satellite Radio to be produced by students of the SLAM! network, the first and only school to receive such an honor. SLAM! Radio delivers award-winning student generated and produced content every day on Sirius XM Channel 145.

While in law school, Rene interned with the Honorable Stephen T. Brown and the Honorable Ted E. Bandstra in the United States District Court for the Southern District of Florida. Rene also served on the Editorial Board of the University of Miami Law Review.

Rene is also a regular contributor to the Firm’s labor & employment blog, BeLabor the Point.
